French on CBXT

• I wish to protest the amount of time taken on Sundays, by French language broadcasts, also sports. This is the day I have the most time to enjoy TV, and last Sunday we had French language, which so many of us don't speak, from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon and from 12 to 2:30, football, followed by more French. . . .

Also, why so many brutal Westerns? My grandchildren watch them and never bat an eye. That is not good for the future.

But thanks for panel discussions, and the showing of films about other countries and other peoples. . . . -F.H., Edmonton.

Leicester Square Has Moved!

• For the past few months I have not heard the program over your station, Leicester Square, on Tuesday evenings. I was wondering if the program was off the air or has changed day and time.—R.A.W., Rivers, Man.

Leicester Square now is heard on Thursdays at 7:30 p.m., alternating with The Twenties Roar.

Look Forward to CBC Radio

• We are looking forward to the opening of the CBC radio station in Calgary. . . . You offer such a wealth of informative, educational and entertaining programs, not obtainable anywhere else, that we shall welcome the opportunity to enjoy them more fully. Miss M. E., Lethbridge.

"A Sleep of Prisoners" Enjoyed

• May I extend hearty congratulations to the CBC for their production of Festival on Nov. 27. Please, can't we have more of these wonderful performances!—Miss M. H., Saskatoon.

How Did It Happen?

• Why did you say that the People and Places program, Nov. 30, would be about Manitoba's seaport Churchill when instead it told about oil at Virden? . . . As it wasn't listed in the Late Notes and Corrections column the following week, we were really puzzled!—S. S., Beechy, Sask.

Because of confusion in scheduling, technicians in Toronto had put taped programs on the network in a different order than was planned originally. The sequence concerning Churchill will be seen December 21. Sorry we couldn't have this information in time for inclusion in the appropriate issue of the Times.

"Most Erudite and Interesting"

• Your series of talks on radio, The Language of Music, by Anthony Hopkins, has been most erudite and interesting. Do let us have more of these programs.—H. M., Calgary.

View from the South

• It is interesting to hear your slant on U.S. and world news.

Your broadcast of Premier Bennett's (of British Columbia) remarks was interesting. Certainly no apologies are necessary regarding the British Columbia "boon - doggle" on electric power generation. We in the U.S. are used to taking it on the chin, and usually regard it as jealousy on the part of the mud slingers.

Personally, I feel more at home in your wonderful country than I do in my own southern United States. So you see, it's like a family quarrel, no apologies are needed . . . but just let some outsider horn in! — F. E. M., Evanston, Illinois.

Enjoys CBW in the Morning

• I have no knowledge of whom is responsible for the program selection carried on CBW in the mornings, but I should like to thank the individual or individuals concerned. It is a pleasure to turn on your radio in the morning and enjoy music that is a pleasure to the ear and not a series of discordant sounds. I think your morning programs are unequalled on any station. Comprehensive news coverage without sensationalism, sports events and above all delightful music. Whoever is responsible for the selection of music to be played certainly has struck a responsive chord. I Sincerely hope this sort of radio entertainment will be allowed to continue. - Mrs. E. M. B., Charleswood, Man.

Ken Reeves

Athlete Turned Sportscaster

Perhaps it was a sportscaster who once said that some of the best sportswriters are those who were once professional athletes themselves.

Be that as it may, any standard applied to 34-year-old Ken Reeves s h o w s that his versatile a n d successful experience as a professional athlete qualifies him for his position as CBK sportscaster in Regina.

He played pro-baseball for three years in the Mandak League. He played semi-pro basketball with the Winnipeg Paulins, one of Canadas outstanding teams during the 1947-54 era. In the 1956-57 season he coached the Regina Crescents Senior A basketball team, and earlier in his life he played minor hockey in Winnipeg.

Ken is a native Manitoban, being born and educated in Winnipeg, but having spent several years working and living in Regina with his wife and three children he has come to regard it as his second home.

Times Change

"Going back to school ought to mean 'going back for fun and games', or at least to relax. For the ancient Greeks the word skoli meant leisure, the free period. But because the old Athenians were highly civilized they believed that any good man would use his leisure to follow the arts or join in grave and philosophical argument about the good, the true and the beautiful, so this word for leisure gave us a name for hard labour and the place where that happens." — Author and critic Ivor Brown speaking on the BBC.

"DEAR SANTA..." begin the letters, and there follows some of the oddest requests that the Old Gent has yet received. "Give Kenny Ploen enough money that he can retire, and give us a chance at the Grey Cup," might be the partial context of some of the open letters this year, as Prairie Sports Final holds its annual Christmas show, Saturday, December 23 on CBC Radio.

Sports commentators in Edmonton, Calgary, Regina, Vancouver, Winnipeg and Toronto—most of whom have outgrown their belief in Santa Claus—toss all reserve aside for this yearly 25 minutes of Yuletide yearnings that in past years has proved to be one of the most amusing sports features on radio. It's not too hard to predict what most of them will ask for—but you can be sure there'll be some off-beat twists to keep the listener chuckling. And Santa, if not entirely sympathetic to the requests, will be amused too.

The following week, Prairie Sports Final comes up with another special show—this one marking the climax of the year. Sports reporters from all over Canada will describe what, to them, was the most important sports happening or development in their area. Listeners will hear from Bill Good in Vancouver, Eric Bishop in Calgary, Glenn Bjarnason in Edmonton, Ken Reeves in Regina and Trent Frayne in Toronto.

SPORTS FANS can look forward to yet another special program on CBC Radio, planned to help them remember the exciting past year of sporting events. At 9:00 p.m. local time January 1 on CBW, CBK and CBX, Bob Moir will conduct listeners back through the 12 months in an exciting half hour highlighting most of the major sports events. Actuality broadcasts will be heard from the World Series, the Grey Cup game, the triple crown of racing, the Patterson-Johannson and Patterson-McNeely heavy-weight fights, the Stanley Cup playoffs, the Harmsworth Trophy boat races, Canadian Amateur and Canadian Open golf championships, the Grand National steeplechase, and many others.

To compile this special program, Bob Moir auditioned and edited ten miles of tape, snipping it into 30 minutes of high-key excitement. Ron Hunka is producer.

IF YOU'RE 25 years or younger, chances are that CBC Radio has always been an integral part of your Christmas Day. The refined voice of The Queen—with her annual message of goodwill—the stately though sometimes dissonant tones of the Peace Tower carillon—the strange noises of a Christmas celebration on the island of Tobago or in British Guiana, all have grown to mean Christmas morning, just as the N.H.L. broadcast means Saturday night.

This year, CBC Radio, and its younger offspring, CBC Television, once more have planned a complete day of special programming to further your enjoyment of this joyous occasion. To select highlights would be a difficult job, because each program is a highlight in its own right, with very special material to enrich your day at home with the family. See the program notes on pages 11, 26 and 27 for complete details on what is offered.

On Our Cover . . .

Our brilliantly-coloured cover was created especially for us by George Swinton, well-known to television audiences for his Art in Action series of the past two years. Emulating the style of the woodcut, the artist has established a mood of dignity and tenderness in this simply-executed painting, reproduced here in four colours.

PICNIC on the Battlefield

ON CHRISTMAS EVE CBC-TV's Quest presents one of its most unusual productions this season: Picnic on the Battlefield, an amusing but disturbing mixture of cruelty and innocence characteristic of its avant garde author, Fernando Arrabal. Production is by Mario Prizek.

Arrabal is a short, bespectacled, bearded man who was born in Spanish Morocco in 1932. He moved to Madrid after the Spanish Civil War, and has lived in France since 1954. He writes in French, using extremely simple, almost childlike language. Picnic on the Battlefield, originally titled Pique-nique en Campagne, and published with three of his other plays in a volume titled Les Lettres Nouvelles, is his first play. He wrote it at the age of 20, when he was strongly influenced by news of the Korean War. Mario Prizek says this is its first production in English, as far as he knows, and possibly the first in any

The plot of Picnic on the Battlefield has nothing to do with Christmas festivities, but supervising producer Daryl Duke has scheduled it for Christmas Eve because it is imbued with the Christmas spirit: peace on earth, good will to men. The situation is uncomplicated: the parents of a young soldier who are too simple to grasp the ferocity of modern warfare arrive to visit their son on the battlefield one Sunday afternoon, equipped with picnic basket sausage, hard-boiled eggs, ham sandwiches, salad, little cakes, red wine-plus a camera, a phonograph, and a rug on which to spread it all out.

The boy tries to get them to leave, but they insist on staying. "Are you trying to tell your father what war and danger are all about?" demands middle-aged M. Tepan. "For me, all this is only a game. How many times do you think I've jumped off the subway while it was still moving? . . . I know perfectly well what goes on. In the beginning, it's all new and exciting. You enjoy the killing and throwing grenades and wearing a helmet-it's quite the thing; but you end up bored as hell. In my day, you'd have really

A Cradle of Willow

A NATIVITY PLAY set among an engaging group of master basket-makers in the English countryside will be seen on CBC-TV's Festival series on Christmas night. Titled A Cradle of Willow, it was written by English playwright Dorothy Wright. The 90-minute production by Eric Till stars Dino Narizzano and Leo Ciceri, with Eric Christmas and Tony Van Bridge.

Written in 1952, the play was first performed in Cheltenham, England, and later presented on BBC TV and Radio, with distinguished casts.

In her introduction to the play Miss Wright says "It doesn't matter" where it is set. The locale is nameless and dateless, but it is obviously somewhere in the West country, because of the dialect the author uses for her characters—a part of England rich in the osiers (willows) necessary for basketweaving, and full of the dampness that invites ague. There are still families of basket-weavers there today, plying their centuries-old trade. Sets by Robert Lawson and costumes by Margaret Laurnet maintain the quality of timelessness desired by the author, while vaguely suggesting medieval England.

Miss Wright's collection of characters, with appealingly normal foibles and difficulties, is headed by the master weaver, Breague (Geoffrey Alexander). His good-natured but simple-minded cousin and apprentice, Will (Dino Narrizano), is in love with Tansy (Toby Tarnow), the local innkeeper's daughter, who is expecting his child. Martin (Leo Ciceri) is a craftsman embittered because blindness has cost him his livelihood as a falconer. Randall (Eric Christmas) provides comic relief as a skeptic; and Hoad, the foreman weaver (Tony Van Bridge), has a madwoman (Moya Fenwick) for a wife. Master Breague's delicate wife (Hilary Vernon) is dving from an illness made worse by the damp, unhealthy marshlands in which the weavers must live and work.

The community is continuously bothered by tax collectors, and there is the threat of a census, the purpose of which the weavers question. Each longs for the inspiration and protection of a Messiah, for his own special reasons.

At length the Messiah really does come to them, but in the least-expected way. A number of strange, miraculous signs announce His coming. Then the community is tumbled into confusion when mad Mistress Hoad mistakes young Will for Him, as he stands against a post with a sudden ray of sunlight striking his head, and falls to her knees to worship him. She brings the halt, the maimed and the blind to Will, bearing gifts, and he offers them comfort in his clumsy way. Eventually it is another man who discovers the true Messiah and returns, jubilant, to tell the rest.

Others in the cast are Ivor Barry as Argent, the wealthy merchant, and Hugh Webster as Clampett, the innkeeper.

Background music for the play includes the theme of a familiar Italian carol, Jesu Bambino. In the last scene the cast sings new words to the melody of an old English carol, I Saw Three Ships.

To learn authentic basket-weaving techniques, members of the cast visited workshops of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in Toronto, and during rehearsals received on-the-set instruction from W. J. Spencer, one of the Institute's expert basket-makers. Spencer's lightning-quick hands will be seen on the screen at work on a basket under the opening titles of the show. The CNIB supplied the baskets and other weaving materials used in the production.

Producer Eric Till says: "Never before have I worked with a cast who enjoyed themselves more in a production, from first rehearsal to the videotaped performance. The play has many moods, from broad comedy to great tenderness."

Program Notes

DECEMBER 24

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Country Calendar

A special Christmas presentation with gardener Stan Westaway and other features including the Christmas Tree business and the opening of the Calgary Stock Yards.

Festive Music

A Concert For Christmas. Festive music from many parts of the world is presented:

Medieval carols performed by the New York Pro Musica under the direction of Noah Greenberg.

Classical Indian music played by Ravi Shankar and his trio.

Music performed by Ari Isaac, halil

Performance of Benjamin Britten's Ceremony of Carols by soprano Evelyn Pasen, harpist Erica Goodman and a children's choir directed by John Hodgins. Benoit Girard is host.

Cancortron IV

The sea-going training of the permanent force cadets of the Royal Canadian Navy, aboard ships of the 4th Canadian Escort Squadron while on a Pacific cruise.

More than 130 cadets from tri-service colleges—Royal Roads, Esquimalt, B.C., Royal Military College, Kingston, Ontario and College Royal Militaire, St. Jean—from HMCS Venture at Esquimalt and from almost every Canadian university, joined the seven frigates commanded by Capt. E. T. G. Madgwick for sea training to complement academic training.

Cadets are seen in various drills, including astro-navigation; loading and firing four-inch guns; racing in whalers in heavy seas, and anti-sub-marine exercises. The highlight is jackstay transfer—ship-to-ship transfer of cadets on cables in rough seas. Bill Herbert, regional supervisor of CBC outside broadcasts in Vancouver is writer and narrator. Mr. Herbert is a commander in the RCN Reserve.

Walt Disney Presents

The Great Cat Family. Walt Disney presents a history of felines from the time of the early Egyptians to the present.

Hazel

Dorothy's Obsession. Hazel uses diplomacy to settle relations in the Baxter household when Mrs. Baxter purchases an antique against her husband's wishes.

Parade

Ed Sullivan Show

Ed's guests include puppeteer Shari

Unusual instruments from exotic lands, and Christmas music especially written for them, are featured Sunday on Concert. Above are Kanai Dutt on the tabla (drums), N. C. Mullick on the tamboura, and Ravi Shankar on the lute-like instrument.

Joan Fairfax, above, and George Murray are featured Sunday in a special Christmas show on Parade.

Lewis; 15-year-old singer Linda Scott; equestrian comedy act, the Hanneford family; aerial act, the Meteors; Egyptian acrobats, the Amin Brothers; Burger's Animals; and 16 Estelle Alfonso tap dancers, whose ages range from 8 to 14.

Bonanza

Gabrielle. The Cartwrights hold a Christmas party for a blind orphan girl and try to reunite her with her grandfather who is a hermit.

One Winter Night

The Story of Christmas is told in folk song. Vocalists on this program are Charles Jordan, David Campbell, Saron Trostin and Klass Varngraft. Eli Kassner is the guitarist. Narrator is Don Francks.

Quest

Picnic On The Battlefield. A play by French avant-garde writer Arrabal, showing the confusion and futility of war. Jeremy Wilkin stars with Gillie Fenwick, Jane Mallett, Peter Brockington, Art Lorne and Jonathan White.

A young soldier Zapo, who is holding a lone post near the battlelines, is visited by his parents who bring along a picnic lunch for him.

Christmas Carols

A half-hour of well known carols from St. Matthias Anglican Church in Ottawa. The carols are sung by a choir from the Cathedral Church of St. George, Kingston, Ontario, under the direction of George Maybee.

Christmas Eve Church Service

Midnight Mass. From St. Basil's Seminary, Toronto.

(repeat) 11:17 Miracle on 34th St. show her family, her wicked brother breaks them and she has to search for another pair.

Magic Strings. A look behind the scenes of the Lanchester Marionette Show at Stratford-upon-Avon, England. The film shows how the puppets are made and operated.

Hansel and Gretel. Hansel and Gretel, the children of a poor broommaker, get lost in the woods while searching for wild strawberries. While they sleep angels watch over them, but when they awaken and discover a cottage made of cookies, cake and fancy frosting, the wicked witch Rosina Rosylips, catches Hansel and locks him in a cage. All the characters in this story, based on the fairy tale by Grimm, are played by Kineminselectronically operated dolls.

Christmas Reflections

A half-hour of well known popular and semi-classical songs and music including many intended to evoke sentimental memories. Featured on the program are singers Clarence Fleiger and Jean Marshall, violinist Francis Chaplin, harpist Phyllis Ensher, pianist Carol Hughes, and a 16-piece string orchestra under the direction Gordon MacPherson.

Open House

Christmas Day On Open House. Gwen and Max and their guests celebrate Christmas and a birthday. Thomas Ross of Toronto celebrates his hundredth birthday today. Mr. Ross was a Christmas Day guest five years ago and today he makes good his promise to return when he reached the 100-year mark.

Storyteller Rita Cox entertains with a French Christmas legend called The Wishing Well.

To launch its week of film presentation on Open House, a short film on antique mechanical toys is shown.

The Fourth Wise Man

The Persian magi, Artaban, is delayed in his journey to the manger by helping a dying man, and arrives in Bethlehem after Mary and Joseph have fled with the Christ Child to an unknown place. Artaban's quest for the Christ consumes the remainder of his life.

CBWT-Ladies First

Three guests recount stories of unusual Christmases they remember. Bruce Moss of Weekend Magazine, describes Christmas in New Zealand. Mrs. W. A. Tolboom recalls her first Christmas in the Arctic. Dr. R. D. Judy relives his Christmas in a Pakistani village.

Jerome the Giraffe dresses up as one of Santa's reindeers when the Friendly Giant entertains his puppet friends at a party on his Christmas Day television show.

Tuk-Tut

A film taken of Eskimo life and reindeer herds at the MacKenzie River delta in the Northwest Territories.

CBXT-Christmas Card Frolic

A highlight of the Christmas Day program fare. Produced in Edmonton and featuring as lead dancers, Sheila McCallum and Wendall Couture with a cast of 12, all members of the Edmonton Ballet Company, under the direction of Miss Ruth Carse.

Don Messer's Jubilee

Featuring Don Messer and his Islanders with singers Marg Osburne and Charlie Chamberlain, and the Buchta Dancers.

Danny Thomas Show

Teacher For A Day. Danny Williams makes the mistake of telling a teacher that he thinks teaching looks pretty easy, which leads to him being challenged to take over a class for a day.

Live A Borrowed Life

Guest panelists are woman's commentator June Dennis and actor Dennis Sweeting, joining regular panelists Bill Walker and Elwy Yost. Moderator is Charles Templeton.

Bob Cummings Show

La Dolce Roma. Bob Carson is swept up in the gay life of Rome when he sets out in search of a missing Italian movie star.

Festival

A Cradle Of Willow. A Christmas drama by Dorothy Wright. Produced by Eric Till.

The first Christmas stirs the hearts of a very human group of master basket makers, as the longed-for Messiah comes to them in an unexpected way.

DECEMBER 26

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Open House

The Great Expedition (Film). A small boy and girl set out from their homes to view the sights and sounds of Christmas in London. We follow their adventures through the gailydecorated streets of the city and as they are caught up in the crowds in the shops and department stores, the film brings the magic excitement of Christmas as seen through the eyes of a child.

American Musical Theatre

Revues. The program examines the all-Negro, foreign and off-Broadway revues that became popular in the 1920's. The CBS Orchestra is under the direction of Alfredo Antonini.

Ladies First

Marilyn Phillips helps us sort out the new supply of gifts and find the best use for them, with special emphasis on costume jewellery, how and when to wear it, and how much is smart according to the authorities.

Peter Lawford, above, and singer Dick Havmes are featured guests Tuesday on the Garry Moore Show.

Mat Gauer prepares two delicious dips, one of crab and one of devilled ham, and an easy cheese roll that can be made well ahead of time and frozen to have on hand for emergencies.

The Arthur Haines Show

Haines presents a sketch on the difficulties he encounters while trying to buy a classical music recording. Aileen Cochrane sings Happiness Is Just A Thing Called Joe, and Mr. Wonderful.

CBXT-William Tell

The Hostages. Starring Conrad Phillips. Gessler threatens reprisals against six innocent hostages unless Tell gives himself up. By a clever ruse, Tell effects the release of the hostages, and himself escapes to the chagrin of the treacherous bailiff.

Gateway

Host Colin MacLean deals with the seventh in a series about the Recreation Commission. Julian Kiniski brings the weather and Glenn Bjarnason presents sports coverage.

CBXT-Sports Page

This week sportscaster Glenn Bjarnason presents a panel discussion on amateur athletics in Edmonton and Western Canada with special guests Bob Moir of Winnipeg; Dr. M. L. Van Vliet, Athletic Director at the University of Alberta; Graham C. Knox and Malcolm Murray of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. Red Skelton Show Appleby's Office Party. Marilyn Maxwell is guest when Red Skelton portrays George Appleby, who is hypnotized at an office party celebrating the end of the old year.

The Lively Arts

This program is rescheduled from November 28. It studies the work of five British Columbia painters and the different ways they react to the atmosphere and landscape of B.C. The painters are E. J. Hughes, B. C. Binning, Jack Shadbolt, Takeo Tanabe and Gordon Smith. Producer, Aria Sarre.

CBXT-Naked City

Debt Of Honour. Stars are Paul Burke and Horace McMahon. A bigtime gambler imports a girl from Italy with intentions of marrying her as a repayment for a debt to her father.

CBWT-Eye To Eye

This program examines the pros and cons of credit, with interviews and discussions.

CBWT-A Song For You

Special guest Lorraine Marsh joins Jose Poneira for 15 minutes of popular tunes.

PICNIC ON THE BATTLEFIELD

seen something. Wars were a lot livelier, and much more colourful. And then best of all, there were horses, lots of horses. It was a real pleasure: if the captain said: 'Attack!' before you could shake a stick we were all assembled on horseback in our red uniforms. That was something to see. And then we'd go galloping forward, sword in hand, and suddenly find ourselves hard against the enemy. And they'd be at their finest, too, with their horses-there were always loads and loads of beautifully round-bottomed horses and their polished boots, and their green uniforms.'

In the midst of the family's weird picnic a young enemy soldier appears, is captured and tied up, and then invited to share the family picnic. "That's what's so pleasant about spending Sunday out in the battlefield," says Maman happily. "You always run into such nice folks."

After a while the two soldiers begin comparing notes on why they went to war. "One day," says the enemy, "I was home fixing my mother's iron and a man came by and said to me: 'Are you Zepo?' . . . 'Yes' . . . 'Good, you've got to go to war.' So I asked him: 'What war?' And he said to me: 'Don't you read the newspapers? You are a hick!' So I told him yes, I did, but not all that war stuff . . .

"That's just what happened to me," says the other lad. "Only I was repairing the car. I told him that I had a fiancée, and if I didn't take her to the movies on Sunday, she wouldn't know what to do with herself. He said that that didn't matter. Well, then my father came down and he said I couldn't go to war because I didn't have a horse. The man said they

DECEMBER 27

See also page 4 of next week's Issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

CBXT-Ladies First

Today's special feature is an interview with members of The Royal Winnipeg Ballet.

Mademoiselle De Paris

Today we join Mademoiselle de Paris and her niece for a ride on the Seine in one of the famous Bateux Mouches, the small steamers that carry visitors up and down the river. Paris is seen from a completely different view as we glide under the famous bridges and past famous landmarks such as Notre Dame Cathedral, which has been looking over the river for 700 years.

Special guest today is the famous Greek film star, Melina Mercouri, who starred in Never On Sunday.

Friendly Giant

Bob Homme and his puppet friends entertain pre-school children with their antics at The Castle.

CBWT-Ladies First

James Duncan, Administrative Assistant of Winnipeg School Division, introduces a series on education in Winnipeg schools.

Gerdine Crawford shows the viewers how to work with textiles.

Mrs. C. Dojack, chairman of Grace

Hospital Candy Stripers, gives us an insight into the work done by these girls.

Yes, Yes Nanette

Planned Picnic. Jan's efforts to bring order and planning into family life backfire when her family rebels at regimentation and tries to return to its disorganized but happy state.

CBWT-Busy Fingers

Three members of Tony Tascona's Saturday morning classes at the Winnipeg Art Gallery demonstrate charcoal sketching. Betty Nickerson is hostess. Ron Bashford, producer.

CBWT-Spotlight

Interviews with interesting people visiting Winnipeg or taking part in the city's many activities. Produced by Ted Benoit.

CBXT-Calling All Children

Talented children (ages 8 to 12) from the Edmonton Community are featured on the final show of the series. Winners of the past six programs compete for the grand award.

CBXT-Stage 7

Reverse English. A high-powered business executive, Mary English, portrayed by Jan Sterling, learns a lesson in how to handle a blackmailer.

CBXT-Gateway

Host Colin MacLean conducts an interview on Why A Better Business Bureau? Weather report is given by Julian Kiniski and Glenn Bjarnason presents the sports.

CBXT-Margie

The Matchmaker. A new comedy

Newsmagazine this week features a summary of significant happenings during 1961.

Playdate, Wednesday features Budd Knapp, above, Cec Linder and Ted Follows in Private Potter, a drama about an army private facing court martial.

series which takes you back to the days of the raccoon-skin coats, the Charleston and 23 Skiddoo with Cynthia Pepper starring as the pert 17-year old scholar caught up in the crazy world of the 20's.

Mr. Fix-It

Peter Whittall and his "helper" Rex Loring with projects for the home handyman.

This week they show how to build a lazy susan cupboard and will offer some ideas on what finish to use.

Playdate

Private Potter. A drama by Ronald Harwood and Casper Wrede. Produced by Paul Almond. Host is Christopher Plummer.

An army private facing a court martial gives a startling reason for his defection in an action against the enemy.

Starring Bud Knapp, Cec Linder and Ted Follows, with special guest star Dino Narizzano. Others in the cast include: James Edmond, Norman Ettlinger, Andrew Allen, John Sullivan and Peter Needham.

Newsmagazine

Year-End Review. Norman DePoe is host of an in-depth report on topics of interest and importance that have taken place in the past year.

CBWT-Recital

Orville Derraugh, baritone, and Rolande Garnier, mezzo-soprano, sing vocal duets by Purcell, Schumann and Dvorak.

Program Notes

DECEMBER 28

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Open House

Elsa The Lioness (film). Elsa the Lioness has become known to millions the world over through Joy Adamson's books, Born Free and Living Free. Now through a BBC film we meet Elsa and her three cubs in Joy Adamson's home in Kenya. David Attenborough made this film of a remarkable lioness and her family.

American Musical Theatre

The Twenties – Musical Comedies. Vocalist Joy Clements and librettist Otto Harbach present a program featuring highlights of some musical comedies of the twenties. Joy sings Alice Blue Gown, Castle of Dreams and Love Nest. The CBS Orchestra is under the direction of Hal Hastings.

People And Places

Mirielle Grandpierre. A visit to the former star of French ballet now living in Winnipeg.

Ladies First

Bernard Ostry, well-known historian and author, stops over on a crosscountry tour to describe the Humanities Research Council of Canada to viewers.

Alice Poyser reviews books for your 1962 pleasure and Marion Wright discusses the intricacies of the child's mind in relation to the written word; how a child learns to read, and how to encourage his progress in the art of reading.

Alberta Game Farm

At the Alberta Game Farm there are about 30 baby animals of a wide variety. To solve the feeding problem and to please the visitors, regular feeding times are held. Each infant is given a bottle of milk with a nipple on the end. We see the children feeding moose calves, baby antelope, mountain goats, black bear cubs and others. During this final show in the series Al again reminds the public of the importance of animal conservation.

Dick Tracy

Hooked Crooks. Dick Tracy sends Hemlock Holmes and the Retouchables to try and stop Pruneface from helping Itchy break out of prison.

In the final program of the Alberta Game Farm series, Al Oeming takes viewers to the nursery of his unique establishment, near Edmonton.

Stop, Look and Listen

In a new short series Geoff Spurll shows how you can build and operate a complete miniature workshop. The first program is about power supplies, beginning with a sand wheel.

This week Jack Robbins discusses space research as it is being carried out at Churchill, Manitoba.

The delightful, unexplored world to be found in books is the theme for Warren Davis' special segment — Recommended Reading.

CBWT – Warren's Corner. Warren Davis and three boys and girls talk with Chef de Cuisine, Henry Bachman, of the Fort Garry Hotel. Producer is Don Browne-Wilkinson.

CBXT-Two Faces West

Performance Under Fire. Charles Bateman stars in the dual role of Rick and Ben January. This week, Dr. Ben January performs an emergency appendectomy and thwarts two gunmen bent on stealing his patient's gold.

Sir Francis Drake

The Boy Jack. Queen Elizabeth forces Drake to take her godson with him on an important mission to try and free an English ambassador imprisoned in Portugal.

The Defenders

Featuring E. G. Marshall and Robert Reed as a father and son lawyer team in a series of trials in which they endeavour to uphold justice in the criminal courts. The series is based on Reginald Rose's 1957 murder trial story "The Defender." Rose acts as script editor and writes some episodes himself.

Best Defence. Story of a gangster's acquittal on charges of murder, and about his trial which leads to revelations about another crime.

CBWT-Ben Casey

An hour-long dramatic series featuring a young resident in neurosurgery at a large metropolitan hospital. Series details in authentic terms the story of professional and personal problems of young doctors in training. Starring Vincent Edwards as Dr. Ben Casey.

CBWT-Swingalong

Singing host Doug Crosley and the Swingalong cast with guests Carol Robson, Evelyn Snyder and Reg Gibson. The following program is presented:

Looking at the World Thru' Rose Colored Glasses The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise When the Red Red Robbin Comes Bob Bob Bobbin' Along Wait Till the Sun Shines Nellie Young and Warm and Wonderful.... The Children's Marching Song... I'm an Old Cowhand ... Doug .Carol and Evelyn .....Reg Gibson Western ballad Doug and Reg All Day on the Prairie ..... The Yodelling Song

DECEMBER 29

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Open House

The Innocent Eye (film). Through the innocent eye of a child we are given the history of the artistic impulse and the urge to transform what we see in nature into art. In the film we learn how the child, with paper, paint and brushes records the world as he sees it, and how his view differs from that of the adolescent and the adult.

The Seagulls. A short film in which the camera catches the grace and form of seagulls on the west coast.

Perry Mason

The Case Of The Roving River. Perry Mason faces one of the most difficult cases of his career when he defends a woman accused of murder-

A child's unusual view of life, as expressed when he puts paintbrush to paper, is investigated Friday on Open House.

ing her step-father with a home-made bomb. (Rescheduled from December

CBWT-Ladies First

Mr. Hart Bowsfield, provincial archivist, returns with stories of local interest.

Yvonne Morton shows how to decorate kitchens on a low budget.

Mrs. Peter Curry tells about the African safari she took with her son a vear ago.

CBXT-Best Of The Post

Carnival Of Fear. The hurly-burly of an international carnival provides the background for a thrilling story of heroism when a couple escape from the Iron Curtain only to be faced with a choice that might make it necessary for them to return.

CBXT-Ladies First

Today's program includes the next in a series of Keep Fit classes with demonstrating Barnhouse simple exercises for the housewife.

CBXT-Peter Gunn

The Wolfe Case. Starring Craig Stevens. The wife of a highly successful lawyer tells Gunn that her husband is in love with another woman and the two are planning to murder her.

PICNIC ON THE BATTLEFIELD

didn't use horses any more, and I asked him if I could take along my fiancée. He said no. Then I asked him could I take along my aunt to make me custard every Thursday. I like custard. Again he said no. And ever since then, here I am, nearly always alone in the trench here."

As the young soldiers struggle to grasp the meaning of a moral law which is forever beyond their comprehension, their conversation, and the remarks of the two parents and of a couple of corpsmen who later come on the scene are often hilarious, but underneath lurks a deep seriousness, an almost frightening tearing apart of some of the pretences of our social and political system, pointing up the futility of warfare.

Jeremy Wilkin will be seen as Zapo, the young soldier visited by his parents: Gillie Fenwick as Monsieur Tepan and Jane Mallett as Madame Tepan; Peter Brockington plays Zepo, the enemy soldier; and Art Lorne and Jonathan White are two corpsmen.

Fernando Arrabal insists that his writing is the expression of his personal dreams and emotions. His first volume of plays was published in Paris in 1958, and two of them, The Automobile Graveyard and The Two Executioners, were published in English last year by Grove Press. This year Grove published his first novel, Baal Babylon, translated by Richard Howard. The publisher describes it as "one of the most haunting and terrifying evocations of childhood since Joyce's A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man. Written according to a new principle of composition which might be likened to a new pointillist technique in painting, the novel is composed of a series of short passages - litanies - each of which transcribes or evokes a highly charged emotional experience or sensory impression. From these juxtaposed litanies there emerges the devastating picture of a young boy raised in an environment of bigotry and hate. The child symbolizes the conflict of contemporary, middle-class Spain, where vestiges of the medieval still linger in everyday life."

Arrabal acknowledges a great respect for such literary heroes as Beckett, Kafka, St. Teresa of Avila, de Sade, and W. C. Fields. In all his writing Arrabal is preoccupied with the problem of goodness in modern society, and the close relationship between love and cruelty. There is violent death in all his plays. He questions ethical standards from the point of view of an innocent man or woman who wants to accept them but can't really understand their real meaning or practical application. In his characters' search for freedom, ridiculous but insistent, there is both comedy and stark truth in the displacement between what they pretend to be and what they really are, between what they say and what they signify.

"There is in his work an incredible hunger for hope, an appetite we do not find, for example, in Beckett, or find no longer," says critic Genevieve Serreau. "Yet Arrabal is certainly locked in the lion's cage. And he is afraid. And he acts like a child: when he is afraid (like Chaplin), he laughs, both to humour the ferocious creatures and to escape his own fear. This rather creaky laugh, which forces the audience to confront a weakness too evident to be disguised, gradually becomes conscious of its own power and effectiveness. At first, in fact, it is enough merely to laugh, in any way at all, for that laughter-faint at first, growing more confident-ultimately can become a formidable weapon."

FRENCH TELEVISION HIGHLIGHTS

Channel 6—CBWFT

A number of Christmas specials highlight the week's schedule on CBWFT, Channel 6. Readers will note also that several programs have been scheduled at new hours in order to accommodate these specials.

Saturday, Dec. 23

Replacing Tribune libre at 6:30 p.m. for one occasion is a special 30-minute recital of religious and popular Christmas songs titled "Yoland Chante Noel." It features basso Yoland Guérard with several choral groups from Quebec. This is a repeat performance of a program seen last vear at Christmas.

Christmas Eve

At 3:00 p.m., CBWFT presents a conference titled "Mustère de Noel" (The Christmas Musteru) on the divine origins of Christmas and its too-often pagan celebration today. Guest is Reverend Father Congar, Iesuit priest and a renowned orator. Immediately following this, at 3:34 approximately is a story by Maureen O'Sullivan titled "L'agneau de la crèche," relating the birth of Christ. Before putting them to bed, a mother tells her children the tale of "The Little Lamb of the Manger." During a particularly dark and lonely night, three shepherds seek a lost lamb. A brilliant star suddenly illuminates the sky and guides them to a lonely manger where they find, with the lamb, a sleeping child . . . the newborn Jesus.

At 4:00, "Télégramme perdu" (or Tchouk and Guek) tells of the adventures of two brothers, sons of a geophysicist, who are invited by their father to join him for Christmas in a remote outpost in the Ural mountains. The pair set out for their holidays but realize on the way that they have not told their father of their coming, and worse, have lost the telegram telling them where to go. They are soon caught up in a series of extraordinary adventures.

Replacing "Music-Hall" at 8:30 is an opera by Gian Carlo Menotti titled "Amahl et les visiteurs du soir" in a production by Jacques Blouin. Guest star is mezzo-soprano Réjane Cardinal; choirs are under the direction of Marcel Laurencelle, and the orchestra is conducted by Roland Leduc.

At 9:30, "Bethléhem en Provence," a story by Yves Audouard, is a trans-

CHRISTMASES PAST

A look at memorable Christmas broadcasts of past years, on MATTERS OF RECORD

J. FRANK WILLIS

"IT'S A HAPPY accident," says J. Frank Willis, "that the last broadcast of Matters of Record falls on Christmas Eve, because Christmas is a special time for looking back, first to the Nativity, of course, but also back to the start of various Canadian Christmas traditions that we hold dear. One of the most popular of them is the custom of having gala broadcasts on and around the 25th, linking this huge country of ours in music, drama, song and greetings. And in this final program, which we call Christmases Past, Ronald Hambleton and I are taking a nostalgic look at some of these festive shows over the last quartercentury."

For the last 12 weeks, on Matters of Record, Willis who has been with the CBC right from its start, and Hambleton, a Canadian writer who has contributed many plays and other features to CBC radio and TV, have been presenting recorded highlights from 25 years of CBC radio shows. They have offered extracts from important dramas, let us hear what sort of gags we used to laugh at, helped us live over some great occasions in Canadian and international history, and included liberal samplings from CBC music programs.

The highlight of the Commonwealth Broadcast on Christmas Day has long been the personal message spoken by the sovereign. Christmases Past includes a portion of the address King George V broadcast to

SPORTS

Perhaps the most unexpected sports story of 1961 was released from St. Louis last week. President Walter Wolfner of St. Louis Cardinals of NFL announced that head coach Pop Ivy had resigned his position with a year still to run on his contract. I talked to Ivy only a few hours after his resignation was made public. Here are some of the interesting comments he made when I asked him to set the record straight.

First of all, Pop made it clear that there was absolutely no pressure on him from club owners. "I want it to be known that no one was after me, nor was I under the gun." He said, "As a matter of fact, Mr. Wolfner offered to renew my contract for a longer period. He was always very fair and honest with me."

Then why, I asked, did you choose to leave such a good job at a time when everyone felt you were making headway? Ivy paused for a few seconds and then gave his answer. "There comes a time in every job I suppose, when you feel your efforts have not been justified in your own mind. I worked hard for almost four years, and was not able to get the desired results from those efforts. I felt the time had come to step out, and give some other man a chance." In other words, Ivy was not in St. Louis just for the top money that went with his job. He was there for a purpose . . . to win . . . and he couldn't make it within his own set limit of time. I didn't hang on this question because he didn't seem to want to go into detail. A man has his reasons for doing things and Ivy felt he was making the right move.

After chatting for a few minutes on the NFL, Ivy began to talk

METROPOLITAN OPERA

Die Walkure

Music drama in three acts by Wagner. The Walkure are the offspring of the love of Wotan and Erda. They are the shield maidens of the god who lead the heroes to Walhalla to battle for the future power of the world. Wotan has ascertained from Erda that the gods will perish if Alberich again obtains the ring. Wotan cannot take the ring from the giants without breaking his word. He descends to earth and founds the family of Walsungs predestined to produce the hero who will accomplish his purpose. his purpose.

Act I. Hunding's Hut. In the centre is a mighty ash around which the hut is built. Siegmund, weaponless and ex-hausted, staggers into the hut and sinks built. Siegmund, weaponless and exhausted, staggers into the hut and sinks upon the hearth. Sieglinde, Hunding's wife, tends the stranger while her husband is absent and when he returns prepares the evening meal. Hunding asks the stranger's name, and he replies Wehwalt; he is a Walsung and is pursued because he has slain a man whose wife he had protected. Hunding recognizes him as his enemy but allows him refuge for the night. Sieglinde is much attracted to the stranger. She gives her husband a sleeping draught and returns to the hearth. She shows Siegmund a sword embedded in the mighty tree which a one-eyed wanderer (Wotan) had thrust there at her marriage feast. She tells him the sword will be the property of the man who succeeds in withdrawing it from its place. He succeeds in freeing it and Sieglinde recognizes in him the valient hero who can be no other than her brother. They rush into each other's arms and fly into the forest.

Act II. A Wild Region. Wotan calls

each other's arms and fly into the forest.

Act II. A Wild Region. Wotan calls upon his favourite Walkure, Brunnhilde, to protect the Walsung in the coming fight between Hunding and Siegmund. As protectress of marriage, Fricka asks for Siegmund's punishment for having joined in love with his sister Sieglinde. Wotan's protests and warnings are in vain; he must do as Fricka bids. He directs Brunnhilde to take the strength from Siegmund's sword and give the victory to Hunding. As Sieglinde, exhausted from the flight, sleeps, Brunnhilde announces his fate to Siegmund. He goes to fight Hunding. Brunnhilde disobeys Wotan and takes the part of Siegmund, but Wotan himself interferes to protect Hunding and the sword is split in two parts. Siegmund is slain by Hunding, but Sieglinde who is to bear a child is saved by Brunnhilde.

Act III. The Rock of the Walkuren.

bear a child is saved by Brunnhilde.

Act III. The Rock of the Walkuren. Brunnhilde brings Sieglinde and claims protection from the sisters, but nothing can save her from the anger of Wotan. After predicting the birth of a hero son to Sieglinde, Brunnhilde gives her the pieces of the shattered sword and sends her into the forest. Brunnhilde then awaits the god. He deprives her of her godhead and causes her to fall into a magic sleep. It is decreed by Wotan that she shall belong to him who shall find and awaken her. Moved by her pleading, Wotan summons Loge and causes flames to surround the peak of the mountain so that only a hero without fear can penetrate them and awaken her to a new life.

about his own club, the St. Louis Cardinals. He was proud of them, believe it or not, because they continued to go all out despite many serious injuries and call-ups by the U.S. Army. "In the first four games," said Ivy, "we lost seven of our ten first string linemen, and four of the six best backs we could recruit."

I asked him about fellows like Jimmy Brown of Cleveland, and about Sam Etcheverry. Ivy was quick to answer these questions. 'There aren't too many around like Jim Brown." . . . "Etcheverry got off to a bad start, was injured in first practice and missed all of camp workout, he didn't throw a pass for about a month. This put him well behind the others. However. I still feel Sam will make it in the NFL, his arm is not gone, and he still calls a smart game. As a matter of fact, he's as smart as most of the quarterbacks I've seen. There are quite a few boys in Canadian ball that could make it in the NFL," he said. A good sound player will show up in the best of leagues. . . . Jackie Parker for instance, would have little trouble making the grade, and Johnny Bright has as much power as you will find in a fullback

I asked him if he would be interested in going back to college football. "I would go back if the right opportunity came up, but I prefer professional coaching."

Here are some other questions and answers:

- Q. Would you come back to Canada?
- A. Yes, Canadian football was good to me. I would consider a good offer.
- Q. Are you in a position to wait for the right opportunity?
- A. Yes, I'm in good shape, and plan to take my time before making a move.
- Q. What do you know about the Eskimos' latest recruit, quarterback Jim Wright of Memphis State?

A. I haven't seen him play, but my staff scouted him for quite awhile . . . they feel he's an exceptional prospect. From their reports, this boy can do everything, and rates with Jackie Parker. As a matter of fact, coaches who know both players feel Wright is a bit better if you compare them as college seniors. Wright has speed, he can pass, and could make the NFL on his defensive ability alone. I suppose only time will tell if he's in Parker's class or not . . . if he turns out half as good, he'll be a great one."

- Q. Who will win the Eastern Division of the NFL?
- A. The New York Giants have a good chance . . . they have balance and hustle, but the Eastern Division is hard to predict.

Pop Ivy was his usual casual self. He was quite confident of the future, he felt he did the right thing, and his conscience was clear. "Say hello to all my friends up there," he said, "and give my best to Eagle."

Commonwealth Broadcast From Canada This Year

THE CBC LINKS the diverse nations of the Commonwealth in a unique radio communion this Christmas. For the first time since the program was established by the BBC in 1932, the CBC is producing the annual Christmas Commonwealth Broadcast. Leaping oceans, seas, continents and islands, the program offers the Yuletide greetings of member nations within the Commonwealth to each other.

Following this broadcast on Christmas Day, Canadians from coast to coast will hear H.M. Queen Elizabeth II broadcast her own Christmas wishes to the Commonwealth. Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker will also be heard following the Queen's broadcast. The President of the CBC, J. A. Ouimet, will broadcast his season's greetings on the French and English television networks of the CBC, and on the internal and Northern Messenger radio services.

The theme for the 1961 Commonwealth Broadcast is The Gift of the Young, a particular salute to the young people of the Commonwealth whose enthusiasm, strength and vision the world must look to for the future.

The broadcast, produced in Toronto by Keith MacMillan and organized by Dick Halhed, will include the voices of 24 young people from 16 Commonwealth nations, speaking of their interests, their aspirations, and offering their greetings at Christmas.

While the theme of the program is Youth, one of the oldest "voices" in the world will also be featured. The Talking Drums will be heard from Ghana and their message is by and directed to Youth: "The children of Ghana salute you all . . . the children of Ghana wish you all a merry Christmas and a happy new year. Almighty Creator that precedeth from time immemorial, give us peace and prosperitylong, long life . . . may we live to see many more years."

The 30-minute program will be heard in some 40 nations throughout the world by those countries' own internal networks and by short wave radio. The CBC, and before it the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission, have contributed to all the previous programs.

Now a tradition among Commonwealth nations, these broadcasts were inaugurated when the Royal address given by the late King George V was preceded by exchanges of holiday greetings among Commonwealth nations.

The 1961 CBC broadcast will feature messages from points as far distant as Alert on Ellesmere Island, only 450 miles from the North Pole, to Vincent's Bay at Wilkes Base in Antarctica; from the slopes of Mount Kilimanjaro in Tanganyika, to, appropriately enough, Christmas Island in the Pacific Ocean-where in 1777 Captain James Cook spent Christmas Day.

Special music for the broadcast has been composed by Louis Applebaum, the CBC's music consultant, and will be heard bridging segments of the broadcast voices of contributing nations. Narrators for the program are John Drainie and Susan Fletcher.

Since Canada is producing and directing the broadcast this year, special emphasis is placed on the youth of this the Commonwealth's oldest independent member.

The first youthful voice to be heard from, and almost the last, is that of little Jane Goslin, an 81/2 year-old resident of Brantford, Ontario, 65 miles from Toronto. Jane goes to a special school in Brant ford, because she is blind. She tells of her hopes for the future, which she has said includes her wish "to try to get married to somebody . . . I don't know who yet." Jane will be heard singing the first solo at the start of the program in a choral and instrumental version of "The First Nowell."

Canadians to be heard from in the program, other than Jane Goslin, include John Edwards, youngest member of a four-man Canadian team at Alert where there has been no sun since October 10; Ken. Cavin, 21-year-old rancher from the Diamond C Ranch in southern Alberta; and Michel Dusseau. 18. a talented young pianist from Montreal.

COMMONWEALTH BROADCAST

A feature of the broadcast is the final, rousing choral version of "The First Nowell" in which a Canadian choir is joined by five others from the Commonwealth. The Canadian choir to be heard is the CBC Youth Choir, under the direction of Lloyd Bradshaw. It is joined by choirs in Jamaica, Nigeria, New Zealand, Malaya and the United Kingdom.

The broadcast opens with greetings from the four points of the compass-the Arctic, Antarctic, Africa and the Pacific. Then will be heard a montage of many of the voices and sounds of the program that follow. Ten-year-old Eta Baro from Rewa, Fiji, wishes a Merry Christmas in the Fijian language and tells of Christmases past; Melanie Rewegi, a young Maori girl and Lorraine Cameron, of Scottish ancestry, will speak from New Zealand; Dennis Doughty speaks from the Snowy Mountain Irrigation Scheme and 15-year-old Ross Martin on the Willario Sheep Station in New South Wales, bring greetings from Australia; Rose Nanang of Kuching, Sarawak, a nurse, wishes "Salamat ari Krismas" to the Commonwealth; Roshan Seth, a history student from India, and Iftikhar Yaqoob and Reginald de Sousa, a Scout and Cub respectively, speak from Pakistan, offer their Christmas greetings; from Tanganyika, Alexander Nyirenda, and Doctors Valentine Eykuze and Sylvester Mdachi, who are combating children's diseases, will speak; the Talking Drums from Ghana offer greetings; Lance-Corporal Glyn Watkins, 22, and Sylvia Randall, 23, speak from Gibraltar; Rodney Webb, a recent graduate from the University of Toronto, now back in Trinidad, tells of the changes he sees for his country and the West Indies generally; English- and French-Canada is represented by Ken Cavin, Michel Dusseau, and Jane Goslin; from London airport, nine-year-old Nigel Stewart will tell how he flies back home to Bombay for his school holidays-and Christmas dinner this year; the program closes with the vicar of the Church of All Saints, in Old Buckenham, Norfolk, England, addressing his congregation. During the program itself, choirs, soloists and orchestras from England, Trinidad, Gibraltar, Ghana, Pakistan, India, Australia,

New Zealand, Christmas Island and Canada, will be heard.

Technical operations for The Gift of the Young are by Tom Prentice with special effects by Frederick Tudor.

CHRISTMASES PAST

his people, on the eve of the formation of the CBC, at Christmas 1935.

"In those early days," says Willis, "the CBC used its own facilities, sometimes, for electronic trick effects. They seem old hat to us now, but we've included a recording of one of them—when George Taggart organized a sing-song across Canada in which men and women in various centres joined in a round of Three Blind Mice."

Often a special part of the CBC's Christmas festivities has been the presentation of a children's classic, dramatized for radio. Willis includes an excerpt from a noteworthy Andrew Allan production of the Lewis Carroll classic, Through the Looking-Glass. There will also be an excerpt from Santa Had a Black, Black Beard, a play by Canadian writeractress Claire Drainie. Another item on the program will be a germane speech from a special Christmas Day play by another Canadian writer, Fletcher Markle, called Christmas Is a Promise.

Markle wrote the scripts, and Andrew Allan produced them, for Baker's Dozen, the 1942 experimental drama series which gave rise to the popular CBC Stage series, still a Sunday night feature. For the last 15 years Markle has been a writer-director-producer for the CBS radio and TV networks. This year he is directing the news CBS comedy series Father of the Bride.

From the CBC's first Christmas on the air, Willis offers a French carol sung by a mixed chorus in Montreal, with a response in French by a children's choir in St. Boniface, Manitoba.

Montreal folk-singer Alan Mills will be heard giving his interpretation of a carol for children called The Friendly Beasts. And there will be an extract from a dramatization of Hans Christian Andersen's The Snow Queen.

terviews Gertrude MacFarlane about some of the ways to interest small children in music. Mrs. MacFarlane is a sociologist and a specialist in children's music. At present she has an evening course on this subject at McGill University in Montreal.

Llanfair PG. There is a widespread impression that most Welsh towns have unusually long and unpronounceable names. Colin D. Edwards maintains that while foreigners may find most Welsh place names difficult to pronounce the charge that they are long is untrue. On a recent visit to his native land Mr. Edwards interviewed some of the local inhabitants. He is at present living in Toronto.

Paper. Wrapping the garbage is one of paper's most fundamental uses, but Joyce Irvine of Winnipeg points out that nowadays most of the garbage is paper, and how to get rid of it is the housewife's main problem.

Daily Features. News commentary is read by Mattie Rotenberg of Toronto; South African records are selected by Valerie Badenhuizen; reading is A Report From Practically Nowhere by John Sack.

medieval carols by the Pro Musica Ensemble of New York, conducted by Noah Greenberg; Hindu songs by the Ravi Shankar Trio, and Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols," with the participation of soprano Evelyn Pasen, harpist Erica Goodman and the choirs under the direction of John Hodgins. Host is Benoit Girard.

Christmas Day

From 5:00 to 6:00 p.m., children will enjoy a full hour of Christmastime games, stories and songs, with regular host Guy Mauffette and all his funloving friends of "La Boîte à Surprises."

At 7:30—"Le chemin de l'étoile" will star Billy Beck, Louis Courtet, and Lucien Frigis in a play based on the novel by Alexandre Arnoux. Alone in Paris on the eve of Christmas, a foreign author meets a Negro singer and, together, they stumble across a lonely hostelry where they have been led by a mysterious force. A child has just been born, and the friendly strangers will re-live the miracle of Bethlehem.

At 9:30 p.m.: "Visiteur de Noel" is the story of a shoemaker, who has had a strange dream about meeting the Lord in his shop. Obsessed by his dream, he devotes his whole day to extra little attentions and charities towards his visitors, in the hope that Christ Himself will be among them. Somewhat disillusioned at the end of the day by the miracle that wasn't, the shoemaker picks up his Bible for his evening reading and stumbles on the verse that begins: "I was hungry and you have given Me bread . . ."

Although not a Christmas selection, the feature movie at 10:30, titled "La maison du souvenir" will put a cheery ending to CBWFT's Christmas Day programming with the story of the Ricordi house of Rome, editors and publishers of the music of some of the best-known and best-loved opera composers: Rossini, Donizetti, Verdi and Puccini.

Thursday, Dec. 28

In the regular series "Heure du Concert" Thursday at 9:00, Françoys Bernier conducts the Quebec Symphony Orchestra and choirs of Laval University in the Berlioz oratorio: "L'Enfance du Christ" (Christ's Chilhood). Telecast direct from the Quebec City Basilica, it stars Léopold Simoneau as the narrator, soprano Florence Kopleff as Mary, Benoit Dufour as Saint Joseph, André Bérubé as Herod and Claude Germain as the father.

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

Guest Of The Month, Edna May interviews Dr. J. Tuzo Wilson in Toronto. Dr. Wilson is Professor of Geophysics at the University of Toronto and a member of the National Research Council in Ottawa. His book IGY: The Year Of The New Moons has just been published. He has travelled widely throughout the world including China, the Soviet Union and both the North and South Poles, and he is the author of One Chinese Moon.

The Pilgrim School. Mr. Webster Thompson, Trade Commissioner for Ontario, spends much time travelling in Britain and Europe. The Thompsons have lived at Lewes, in Sussex, since 1953, and when they couldn't find a suitable school nearby, they decided to start their own. The school is organized under the Parents' National Education Union which allows parents to have their own schools but supervises and inspects them. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson talk about their school freelance broadcaster Thomas Lodge.

At The United Nations. The regular weekly report on activities at the U.N. is given by Kathleen Teltsch.

Let's Be Frank. Betty Shapiro of Montreal answers letters from listeners about personal problems.
